What to Do in a Dental Emergency

The best response to a dental emergency depends on the situation, but one thing remains constant — call your dentist immediately. Quick action can prevent complications and save your teeth.

Here's what you can do before visiting us:
If you have a toothache, rinse your mouth with warm water and avoid applying aspirin directly on the gums.
If a tooth is knocked out, keep it moist in milk or saliva and bring it to our office as soon as possible.
If a filling or crown falls out, try to keep the area clean and avoid chewing on that side.

Our team at Smyl OC Dentistry is ready to guide you over the phone and prepare for your arrival to ensure prompt, effective treatment.
